1ed,

Another year has gone since we first new each other in 3rd grade and I think we have changed a little since then too! Out of all the classes we've been in together I think Mrs. Taho's was best.

Friends always,

THERE USED TO BE A NIGHTMARE IN MY CLOSET

fast cars, fast women, a crust of bread, a taste of schnapps — ah, what a life, THE life, MY life. but before I reached that plateau of SENIOR SUCCESS, things were different. why I remember when I was a freshman, the night before school's opening, I, in the SECURITY of my four poster BED, sure-fire daisy bb gun in hand, and the added protection of my four-starred combat helmet, began to think of my first days of high school. present FEARS are less than horrible imaginings.

I meet john ferris

the air force saluted, cheerleaders CHEERED, and cindy thompson blushed. pictures of brenda coull, director of external AFFAIRS, were taken, and shoukoush amin javaheri looked on amazed. I was honored by being allowed to unveil director of student activities, john ferris. I was coming up in the world.

understanding senior sophistication as I rushed to walk my knee-soxed SWEETHEART to class, I was assaulted by a speeding lawnmower, and seduced by the siren-like BANNER GIRLS. I tip-toed gauchely into the office and was promptly snickered at by linda dobes, but received a friendly click of the pen from gilles bonnet. maybe someday I'll understand such senior sophistication.

breathing sideways can hurt freshman though I was, I had older friends for protection . . . against the horrors that were everywhere: tom blank strangling roberta harrod, ray vella doing his noon time thing. however, lora mills was there to photograph even misdemeanor. in one of my classes, hubert frederick flexed and made me feel puny, but I took comfort from a lady who drew me a cute furred creature that whistled. I was appreciative. dana johnson sat on kruckeberg's lap — that made me happy too. bill fisette looked one way and shoukouh amin javaheri another, and — batman help us! — kris leonard towards any and all bingo games. when she looked straight at me, jerilyn davis made me melt; I was warm and secure, safe for mr. maxwell's morning test. horror is beginning to confuse me.

After I graduate this year
I doubt if you will ever really think about this person who wrote really strange things in your annual. But ~~but~~ before I go I want to leave you with some profound wisdom I've

See,

Well there goes another year it is really hard for me to believe that another year is gone. It is hard to say good-bye to all that I had this year —→

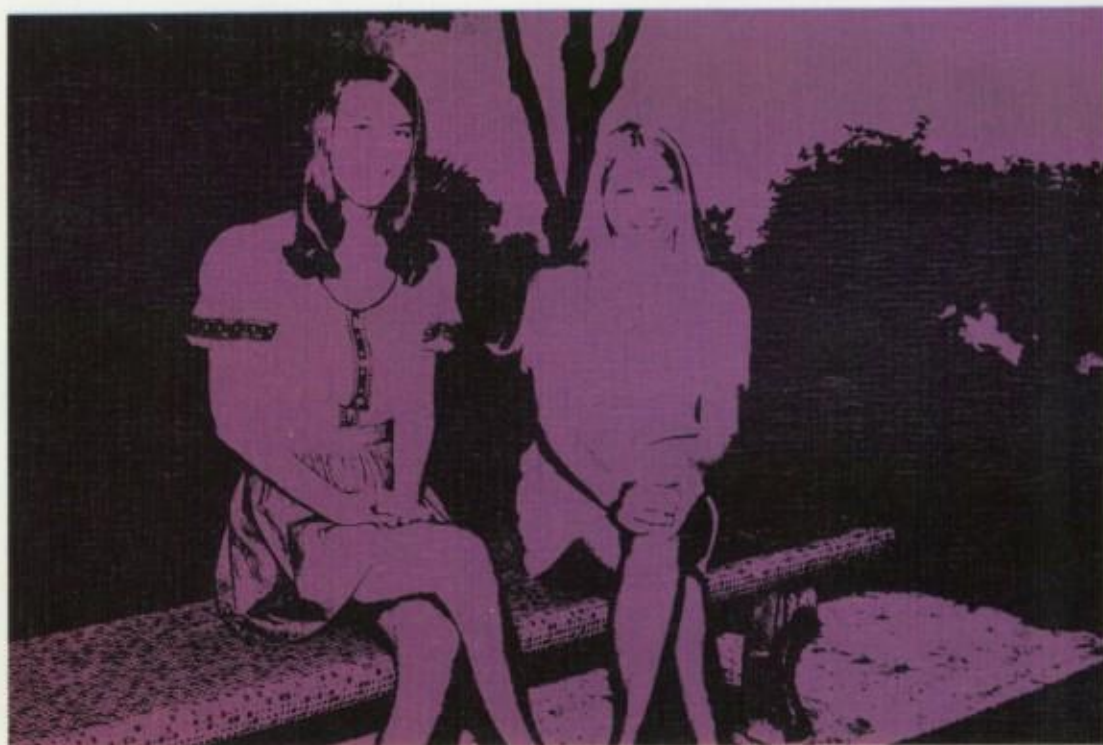

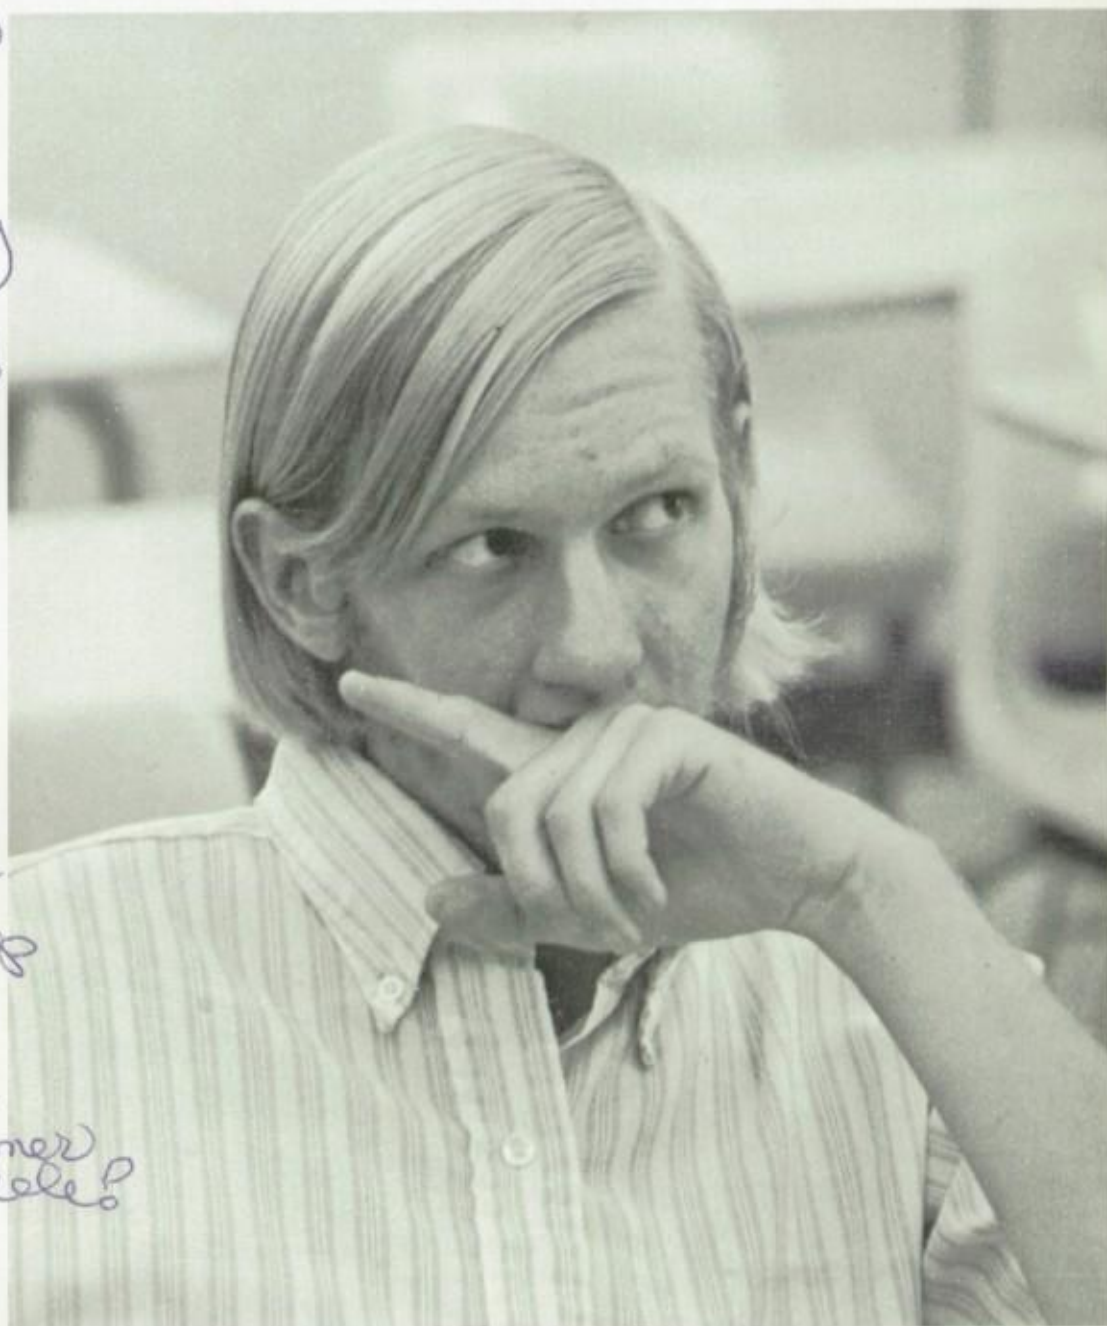

But it is going to be even harder to say good-bye to all my friends next year just. Think we are going to be seniors. I'm really glad that we have gotten to be such good friends in the last couple of years. The world needs more people like you, good people. I think next year should be pretty good (monarchs & madquins), bad, huh?) But I do hope after our High School Days are over our friendship will continue into the future. Have a great summer and try & keep out of trouble! (I hope I see you!)

on campus lunch

for me

I was mad. seniors and juniors had off-campus privileges whilst I, a poor innocent freshman, suffered at the hands of the catering class. I tried once to go off at lunch, but was unfortunately apprehended by the conscientious guards. I was sad for a while, but jeff grace, an enlightened junior, opened my eyes to the more TASTY DISHES on campus.

mrs. campbell had cupcakes at times I thought j. edgar patrolled the campus. my only hope for evading Key Clubbers flying three sheets in the wind was to hop on my trusty tricycle and pedal hard and fast to the protection of the german room. there marianne campbell watched over us NEWLINGS and offered us sacred mushrooms. the song leaders continually harassed me for my spirit, but joan harrington, even though a senior, decided I was worth a SMILE.

less fright

the plan? to catch the monsters and let them know I could face them head-on. with the help of Stage Crew and mac, I staged my trap. first of all, nina bruhns called Western Costume and explained the situation . . . mainly that I needed headgear and ammunition. three girls on a ladder had good vantage and could sight the approach of any one or any thing. smack in the middle of campus we stationed robert smith and his League officers; nobody would mess with them. and to add an international flavor of intrigue I involved shoukou amin jauaheri from iran, a decorative balance to the League muscle. I am adapting to this place and am not as frightable.

everything went on schedule. silently, but without hesitation, my plan went into effect. nothing could go wrong. to ensure this, I hired a band of vigilantes, who, under my jurisdiction, were to aid in subduing any subversive activity on campus. help was scarce, however, and mere freshman that I was, I had to settle for the muscles of danny mc daniels and roosevelt allen; the administrative insight of alex rudoff and harry strubbe; the speed of doug hopper; the inconspicuousness of rick bruwelheide; not to mention the coarctation of bill dragoo, mark mooneyham and julie leavitt.

so very, very much happens. sometimes I become lost and confused, let alone terrified. football games, especially, need explaining. my friend walter becker went to his mentor, mr. peter becker, who knows the truths, who can tell the difference between a ping pong ball and a football. but even after the session, walter couldn't help me out. then charlotte goodell looked around, up and over, scoured the campus for assistance, but as in most things, I knew I'd have to teach myself, beginning with the SOPHOMORE and FRESHMAN teams:

1. henry williams, andy hauk, carl hays, jim delaney, jim childs, dan vitello, murray turner can we actually know the universe? it's hard enough finding the kitten koop

I enjoyed frustrating my monsters by organizing my campus army. we would take on all scarey-commers. there was GIRLS' LEAGUE and its officers: president nancy olson, charlotte doane, lora mills and jerilyn davis. of course we needed publicity as we organized, so we called on WILDCAT editor bob aldrich (john petranek and jeff grace approved) and asked bill fisette, director of human relations, to investigate monster relations. john and jeff got bored early, so tom schrey and roberta harrod agreed to help. confusing? well, AFSer from france, gilles bonnet, once he learned everyone's name, promised to become an ace monster-hunter. it — monster hunting — could become an international sport. if there were enough money (but you know we're short of that stuff around this place) we could buy uniforms, but we'll get by with what we have.

charlie turned

he wouldn't stop crying so I took him by the hand. actually, his aloneness was offensive to me, and I didn't like shirley tennant pointing out his gawping mouth. jean and bob thurston watched me settle down the poor creature into monster tranquility; I wanted to become adept at this job of settling my very own monster. yes, and charlie mills turned his back, returned to his cage in the locker room. penny phillips and pam holmes, ASB SECRETARIES wrote out a lengthy report as lorin kiefer, of CLASS COMPETITION, posed. so did CROSS COUNTRY.

trike's no bike

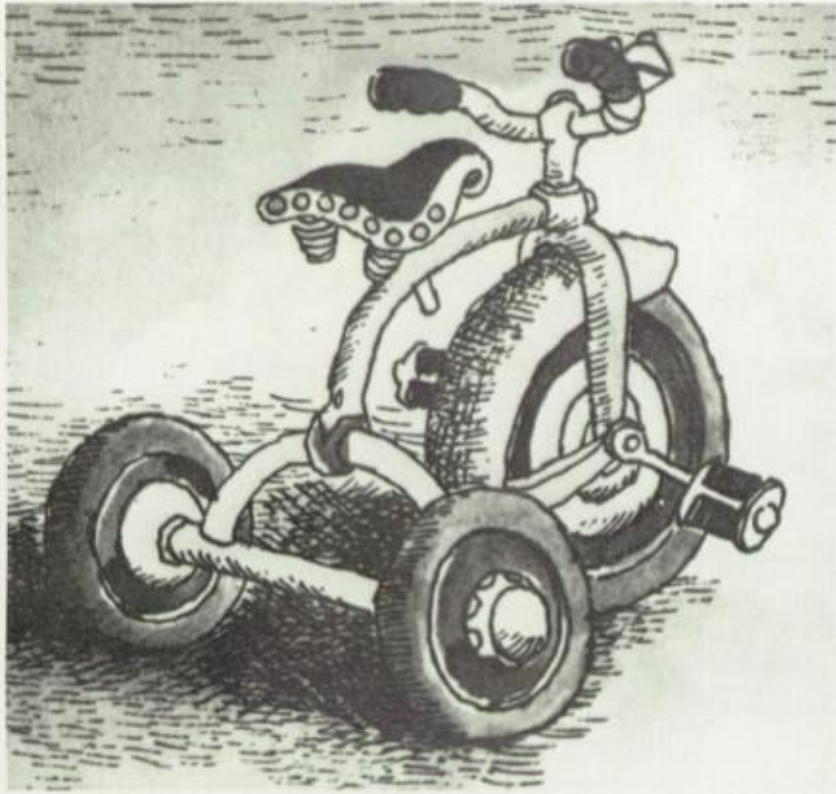

on my new tricycle, I was attractive to the campus beauties: julie peet preferred a ride with me to spins in dune buggies. and PEP CATS were ecstatic, proud, that I was a swinging freshman. somebody asked for a race on the track: he wore his shoes; I rode my bike. kathy allen boosted my morale by getting on the pep stage and cheering, but the kid with the spiked shoes won. I dropped three giant steps, feeling doomed to defeat and the fright of new monsters. brenda coull, who sits in front of the PEP CATS, patted me on the head and promised that me and my trike were still winners in her eyes.

I discover football and water polo they told me not to fret . . . instead, to call on the good folk. I liked linda ward and bonnie witt. we could play in the pool when it wasn't occupied by the water polo aquamen. after I looked up that word (we never had it at clifton), I told mary lin about what dictionaries were for. she took me to a football game that friday night. maureen ostrye and barbara gholar made posters and hung them across campus, advertising these friday night do-do's, at one of which bob martinez favored us with a real knee-slapper. it was exciting that the boy from france, gilles bonnet, leaped off the peace garden.

two head west

one of my older friends was hubert frederick, a senior. all he had to do was flex, and two of those lurking creatures delurked, loped to greener pastures to the west of us, where they scare mighty easily. on their way they passed a young lady, who, in a frenzy of fright, was contained, restrained, by her friends. one girl just passed out on the pavement; she awoke in time for snack. hubert laughed. of course harold lawrence chewed on his straw and quoted hamlet, who was some danish panther the older ones at this place have read about. we freshmen don't read about good stuff like danish panthers; we get steinbeck's the pearl. someday i'll be a senior, they tell me, and i'll get to read the good stuff just like my friend hubert.

very nice friday

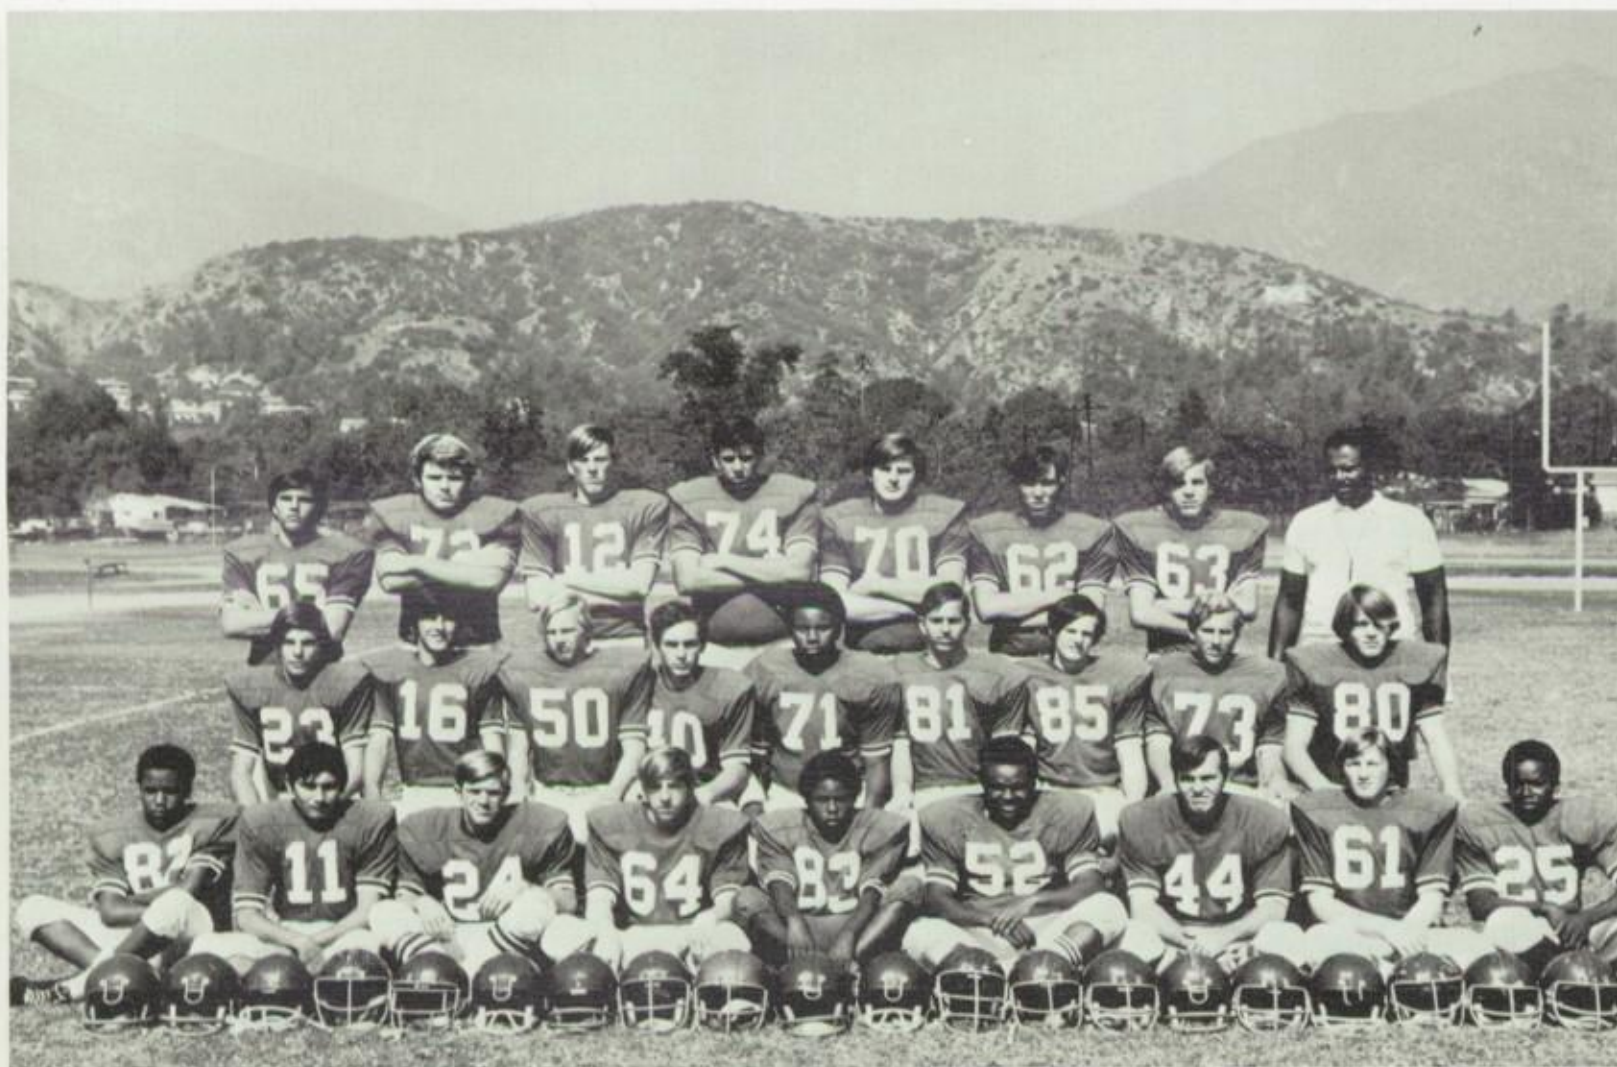

though I didn't know him, people in the bleachers called him doug, doug hopper. in the game against SAN GABRIEL he scored a TD, and they told me that was a good thing to do. when they applauded and stomped, I did that too. when monday came, I watched the happy folk continue their happiness: don anderson, jerry spencer, denise harvey, bill boocock and duane schuill were happy all the way to a conference, so the SONG LEADERS were happy for everyone and looked great up there on the pep stage. JV FOOTBALL looked stern, but they were quite, quite happy.

greg allbee and council

a bear came out of the woods to look around, to check the local scene. what did he see? well, whatever it was, greg allbee, STUDENT BODY PRESIDENT, had a hand in it, having been elected while I was still at clifton. he and his EXECUTIVE COUNCIL got along, and I, a freshman, was impressed by the cordiality and knowing sanity.

candy apples

it was 12:04 . . . time to make the lunch scene. I really wasn't hungry though, I had just finished sitting through mrs. campbell instructing kris leonard on the philosophy of wellschmerz. oh well, a candied apple and a taste of GATOR-ade would do just fine.

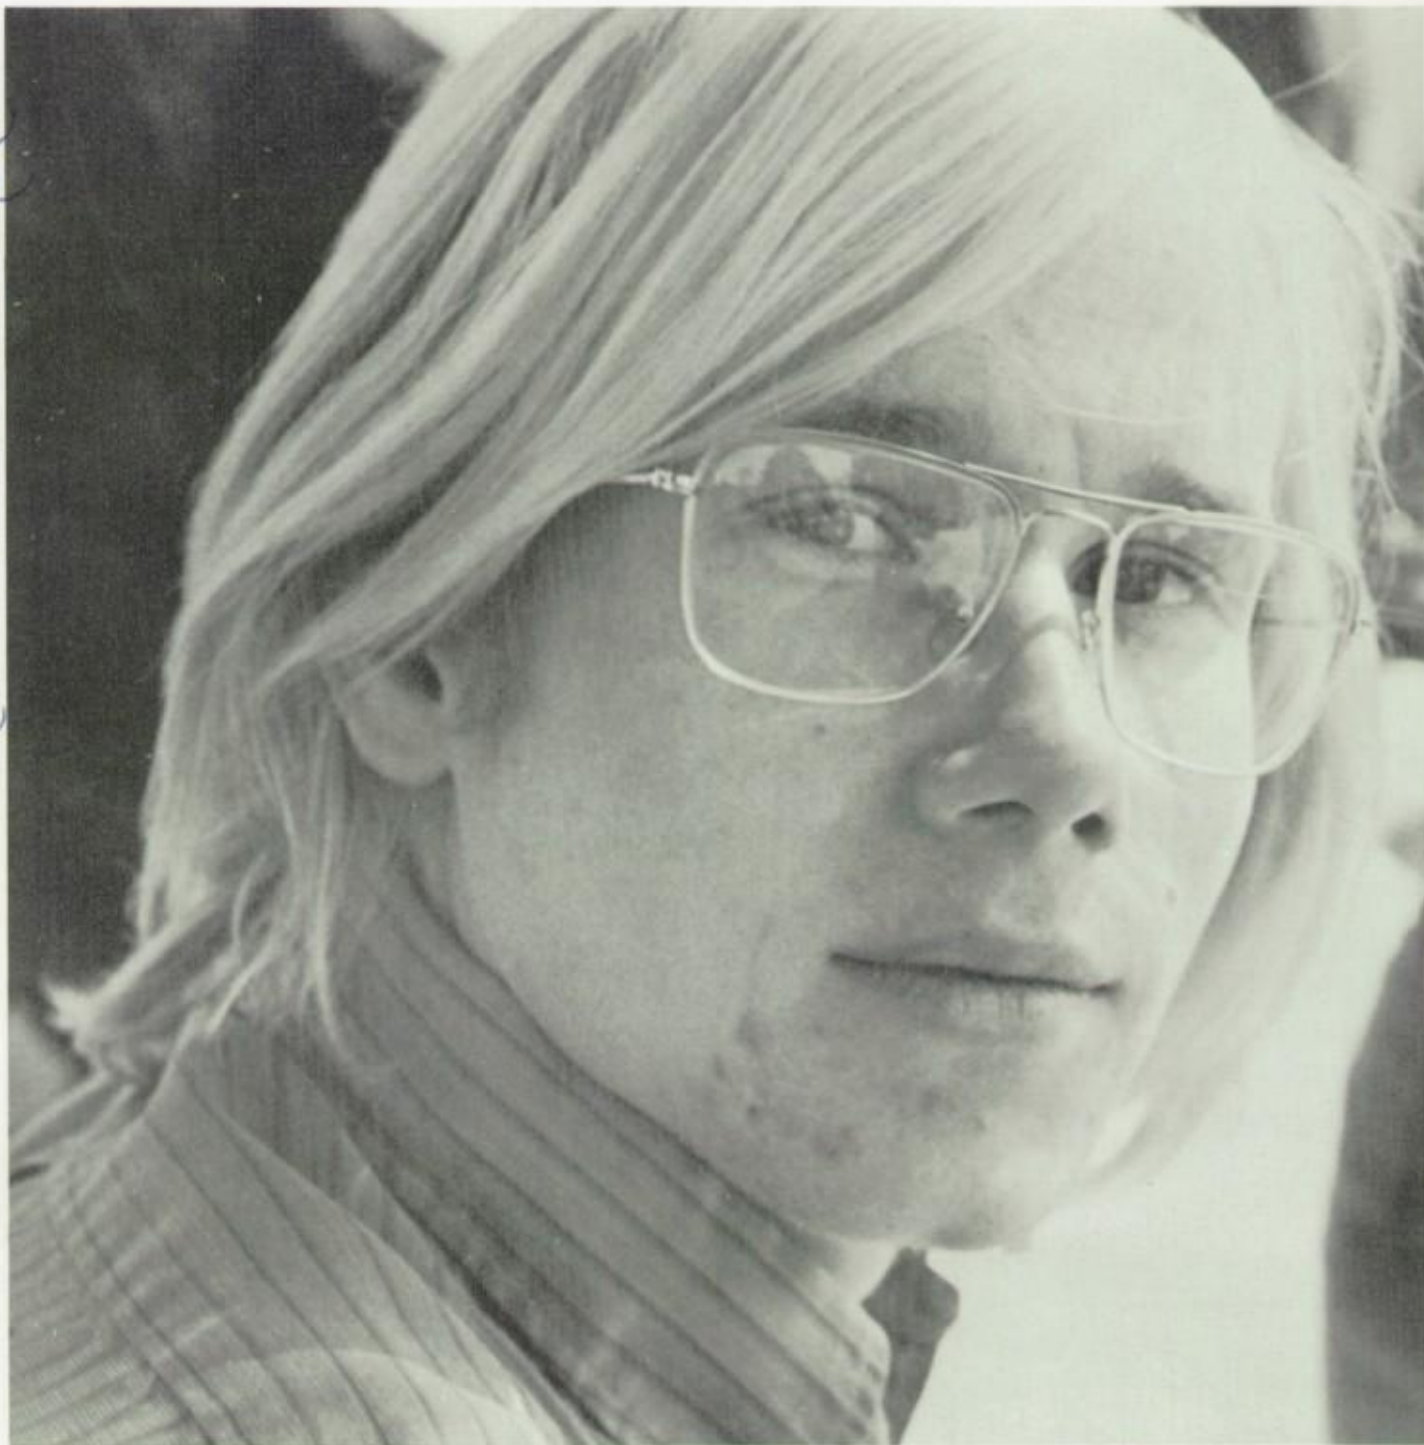

vicki martin announced a pep rally towards the end of lunch to promote athletic spirit, and max glassbrook, being DIRECTOR OF ATHLETICS, attended. tod hooks would have been there too, but was unavoidably detained demonstrating the proper technique to marching the colonel bogie.

on thursday, despite such skeptics as paul arnold and shoukouh amin javaheri, an assembly was held featuring a three-act comedy put on by the drama department. everyone seemed amused, even janice vetter.

unfortunately robert smith was unable to catch the last act, which was the best part. at least that's what frank roughan and brent anthony told me. and what freshman in their right mind would challenge such senior seniority.

I learned later from debbie taylor that the famed FRITA GONZALES was supposed to have performed (she's the one who defenestrates while riding a rocking horse) but unfortunately was held over at a previous engagement, the grand opening of zachary all's, duarte.

poor boy long ways

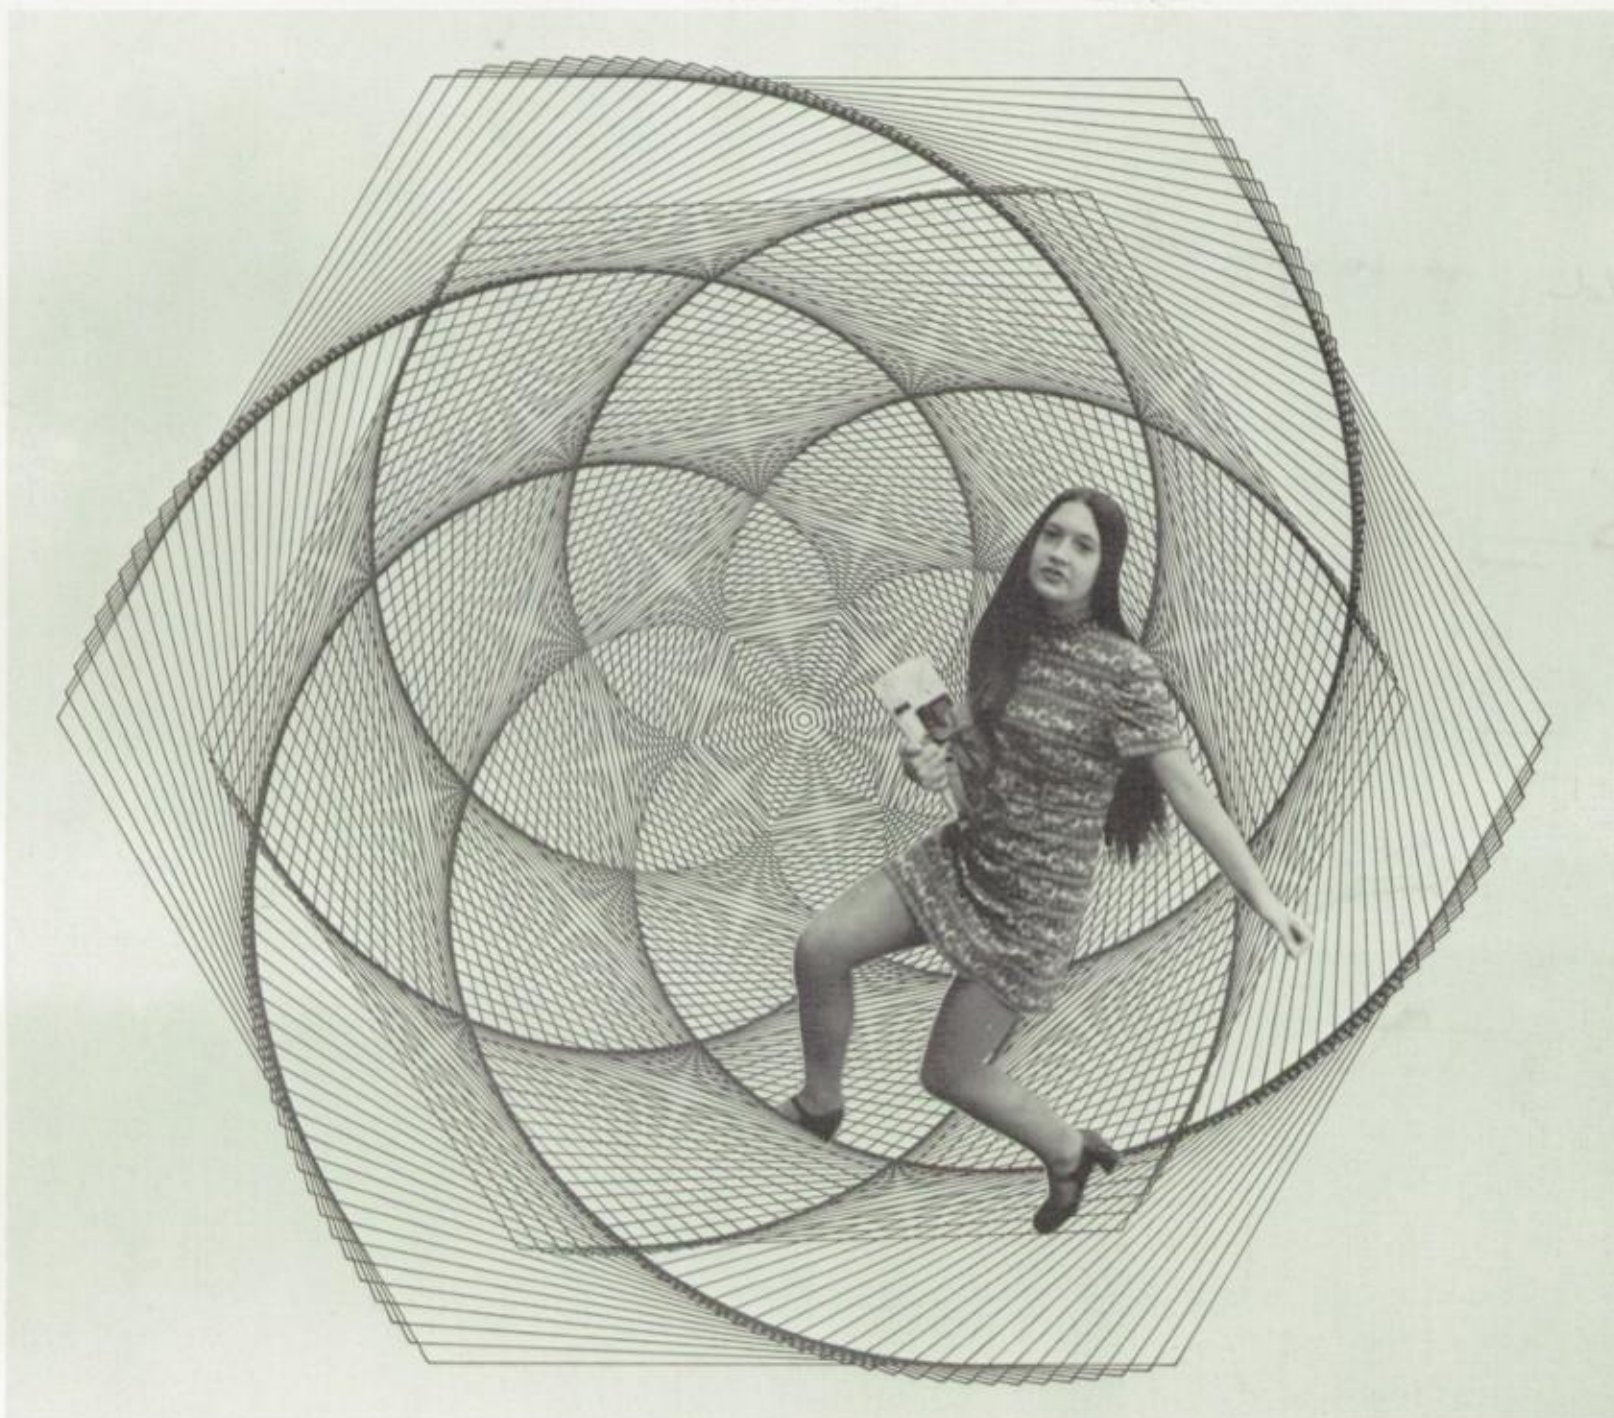

I met this little kid at the game. there were these two monsters chasing him across the old bleachers to his mom and dad. bonnie witt was horrified. tim hayward, jean kolberg, and bill fissette were very concerned. stefanie saccoman and willie albee expressed their views. ftj wondered why nobody would help him. he'll just have to fight them off HIMSELF. that's one of the things I learned as a freshman.

from home blues

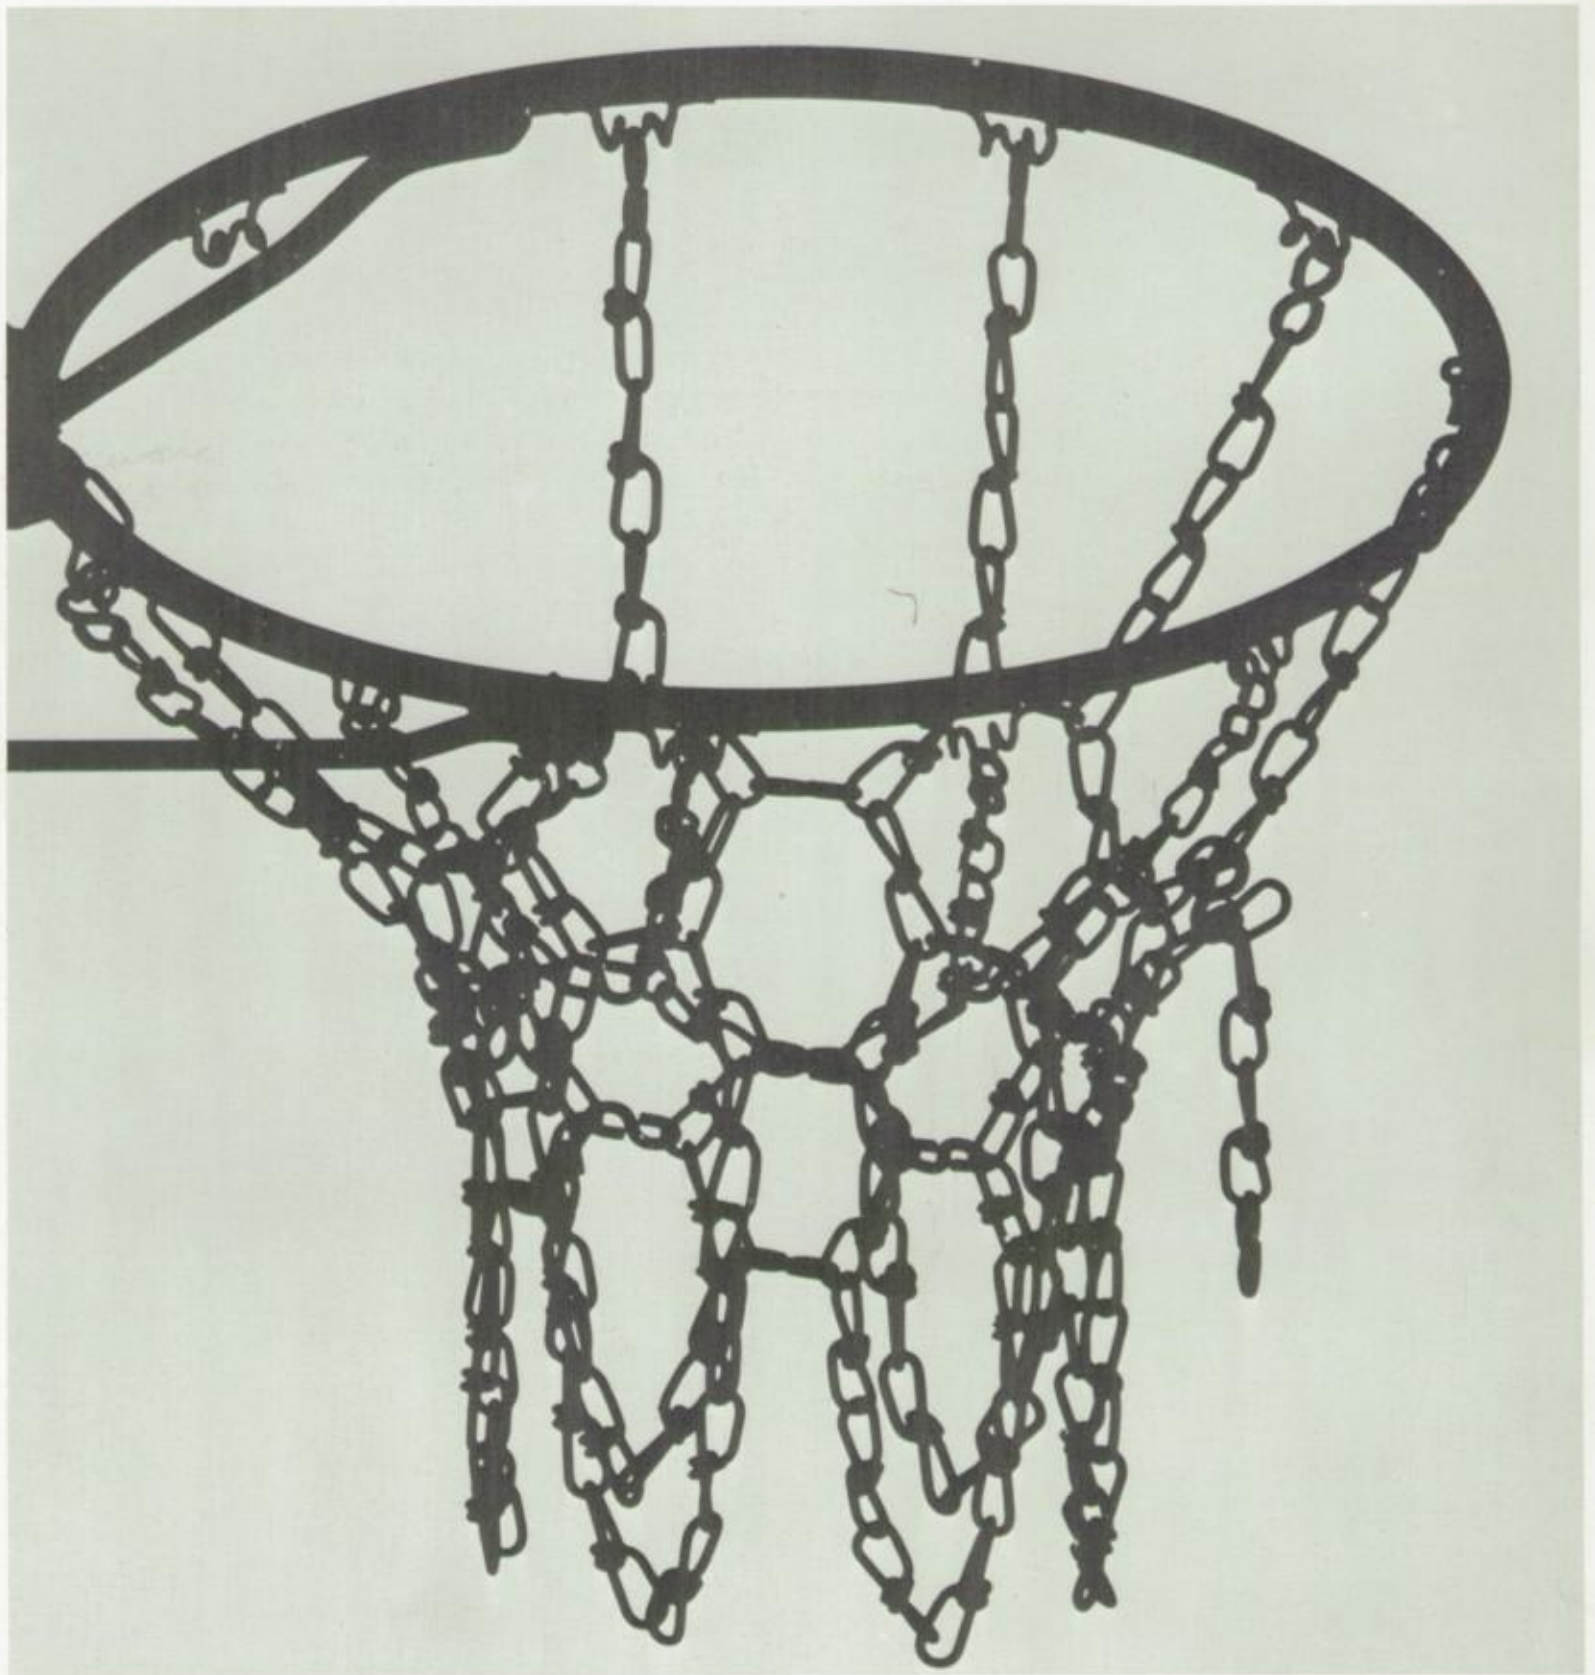

emily weaver, get out of there!

at one point, the heaviness weighed, I slipped into my sloop and got away: THE WORLD IS TOO MUCH WITH US, LATE AND SOON. for back on that campus things were spinning: emily weaver in a geometric design, for instance. denise mac-kessy took notes for me, but several freshmen (they are like this) got her notebook and tore it to shreds. so kathy keys, SECRETARY OF FINANCE, called the police, who were involved at the time with protecting the BIG M from victor martinez's martian friends. stunned, tom silcott gasped and said he knew nothing about geometric designs, but he did find the CURRICULUM COMMITTEE; they lined up and promised to rescue emily on her birthday.

it was no big HOOP-dee-doo when I started my sophomore year . . . that crust of bread, that taste of schnapps was still distant. but somehow, becoming a sophomore changed my life; somehow I felt a lessening of hostility, a faint acceptance by upper classmen; somehow I felt I could exist after all. I was finally a SOPHOMORE. oh, isn't life a terrible thing, thank god!

when things got a bit rowdy on campus (as they sometimes did) problems occurred. so, not just for compromise, but out of necessity, the administration hired eighteen bouncers to handle any future rowdiness: VARSITY VOLLEYBALLERS, they were called. the hiring of leanda smith or terry maxwell or mike lipchitz was completely unnecessary, though; they were standard equipment. besides, they couldn't accept pay for what they did; they existed solely on SPIRIT.

hog jowls jubilee

there were big doings on campus . . . the b.s.u. was planning their annual soul food dinner. shirley tennant suggested home-made apple pie for dessert, and the SCHOLARSHIP CLUB, apparently not soul food connoisseurs, seconded the motion. calvin benson and john johnstone, however, co-planners of the event, would have no part of it. finally, to mediate the problem, paul weaver, DIRECTOR OF ELECTIONS, suggested his mother's recipe of hog jowls jubilee, much to the approval of brenda coull and maureen oystre, DIRECTORS OF EXTERNAL AFFAIRS.

I wish I could have been in more classes with you this year. You're really a crazy person but I like ya lots. Looking at you now I see you're letting your hair grow; very good. It fits your Woodstock personality.

Golly gee, it's really hard to say things to a person you really like. The only thing left is for me to be serious. I'm so glad that I can call you a friend and I hope you consider me one. We should have some good times together, you being a Monarc and me being a Madquin. We had better have more classes together next year. I can't stand not being around your insane personality.

look at that nogood boyo now the twelve-toothed toenailed terror forsoothed as the cops sedan's siren shrieked and MIXED CHORUS and AFS smiled sweetly (although the sun shone brightly and they blinked briefly as the camera clicked).

ALLITERATION. in english 10 I learned such sophisticated sophomore semantics.

when I came back after my freshman summer, people said I'd gained weight. jean giampietro heartily approved (she always thought I was too skinny) but bev sherman seemed rather stunned at the small snack I'd prepared for break. (I still hadn't reached the point where I could say I prepared tiffin for snack — much too upper-class sounding). well, the kiddies in m.c. all thought that such a banquet deserved fancy dress (better than robes), so they got all duded up and took a picture of themselves because they looked so pretty.

the score was tied . . . the coach was p.o.'ed . . . the crowd was uneasy. it was friday night and as was the custom (especially for sophomores and upper classmen) on friday nights, the supporting of your school's athletic programs was expected. vicki martin needed no supporting, no financial reimbursement, she functioned universally. so did the DEE BASKETBALL TEAM. so did I. so did frita.

you'll be sorry for this in the morning sometimes (again) things went wrong, so three madites were appointed to keep order . . . they were responsible for trying those who attempted to make life chaotic on campus. to avoid conspicuousness the threesome made their rounds incognito . . . one dressed as a wildcat, another posing as a pass receiver and the third as a foreign correspondent from france.

suspensions were aroused on campus as to their true identities and purpose, but it was not until the inquisitive eye of teresa lee saw through their disguises that the threesome was found out. FOILED AGAIN.

paul attempts to photograph one

I, like my friend greg allbee, wanted a little peace — rustication in the s.a.o., if you please; you know civilized quiet. S-H-H-H, I went, and sent paul weaver to take a picture. fear, I decided, is sometimes necessary. all those PEP COMMISSION ladies were stilled for a change as they watched paul shoot; even THESPIANS became subdued but wore costumes any way. they are

keep off the grass

as the leadership class sang the STAR SPANGLED BANNER (directed by bill fissette) and the football guys completely ignored my cheers. janet robinson asked me what was wrong, and watched me as I left, disgusted. the beasties were afraid, because I was never this way before.

the signs and the conformity were getting to me. I guess everyone has to get out to the COUNTRY once in a while, just to sit and think and look at the wheat and smoke his pipe.

a funny thing happened on the way home from friday night's football game . . . I saw these chicks, nine of them, standing on a stairway. as I passed, they all smiled except one. she was different. she meant business. maybe it was the darkness, the atmosphere, or maybe her hot pants, but I got this kind of funny feeling when she looked at me. I walked over to see if we could have any FUTURE BUSINESS together, but before I reached the bottom step she was gone. oh well, she was probably more interested in the athletic type like marvin holmes or mike lipchitz anyway. and Teddy enough : "Top"

ben miraculously recovers rumor had it one afternoon that ruben flores, cross country man, had taken ill. this was no common disease that plagued poor ruben, mind you, and for a cure the administration called upon the FUTURE TEACHERS. as it turned out, they knew little to improve ruben's condition. so in a final desperation move, mrs. lee sear placed a special herb plant, which she had found at yermo and which apparently was capable of warding off all evil spirits, on a stick, shook it vigorously as directed and waited for results. miraculously ruben recovered . . . just in time for friday's varsity game.

he's going to do it, I just know he's going to do something with that ball! Maybe it will be the little bird in the tree or possibly a squirrel that will be jim reagan's target. even the monster fears his deadly plans. oh, well, the CHAMBER CHOIR doesn't seem too upset. I suppose jim is only playing the game.

at noon the heat was intense, as if some fire-spewing dragon had come to life; extreme weather conditions never prevented HOSPITALITY COMMISSION, JAYVEE BASKETBALL or HUMAN RELATION activities, though . . . they could bear the elements. despite the heat, someone offered me half a salami and cheese sandwich during lunch. that was a nice gesture. at mhs we even cheer nice gestures.

when things slowed down and bright lights dimmed, when ken klotzle dozed in mr. jansson's english lit. class and students resorted to playing firemen for entertainment, it was decided some outside talent was necessary to liven up the place.

the B.S.U. (they had connections) was consulted first for any talent prospects. ezra daniels, a senior sophisticate in his own right, was selected; they said he had a way with the women.

his act, performed on the pep stage before an audience, which was unusual, received a standing ovation from twenty-nine well-GROOMED chicks.

dianna, miss varsity 1971

dianna curtis, MISS VARSITY 1971, flanked by a court of seventeen, count 'em seventeen class princesses, reigned over november's homecoming festivities of my junior year.

dianna, the ultimate of senior sophistication, one who has tasted that crust of bread, that taste of schnapps, along with her senior princesses ann dunn, charlotte goodell, charlene haley, kathy harris, sheila mc neal, juniors ginny fox, reesa shook, jana roach, nancy self, sophomores sheila kruttsch, barbi livingston, janet robinson, linda parker and freshmen lynn miller, janet shaw, merri shryock, susie wattenberg, appeared both stunned and stunning as they passed before their subjects on the parade review.

beasties sought around campus

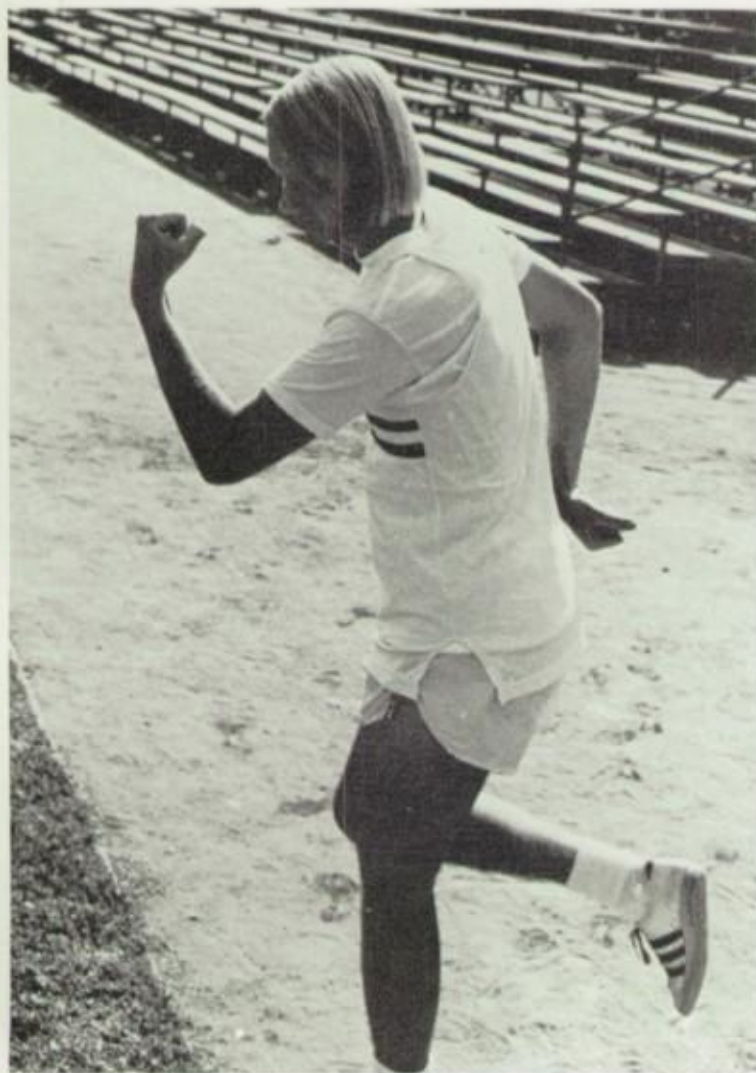

there once was a time, you know, when snakes and lizards and beasties of all sorts were kept under guard at all times . . . but not at mhs, and especially not around HERPE-TOLOGY CLUB members. but, as always, the traditionalists, namely renee perrault, barbara gholar, kathy allen and carla fiore, carried on and demanded they be locked up and watched. david warner was assigned as their keeper, but left his post after sighting more pleasurable game on campus.

thyroidic eyes or just leers or maybe they, those beasts . . . those Hamletian moody types, are not in control. truly, we are the masters of our fate, the captains of our own ships, and we ACCOMPLISH. we learn to fear only our fears. as in the case of jeff grace (photo by mayer). he flexed. astonishment, not fear, filled us all. we quaked. ah so, as in the case of miss linda jones (she of the baton) who made music elevating and pure and grand. as in the case of vicki muse with pensive attention in mrs. dodd's class, looking so much like nina bruhns, another master of her fate. FRENCH CLUB got barry edwards as president again and mr. christopher juggled and complained about their being left out of last year's book, so this year they got a big picture in the annual. GIRLS' TENNIS had mrs. mary mckesson as coach, and they all looked healthy and brave . . . no NIGHTMARES in their closets. it all goes to show you that, well, that, that. by this time, surely you know.

minor incident

there was no pushing involved; none whatsoever. john petranek simply went down, into a box. not even shocked, rusty dodd turned the other way and hoped for the best, but, as usual, ellen danchik was quietly concerned, wondering about the phone as well as john's condition. the class was too embarrassed to laugh, and across the campus miss jones' COMBINED CHOIR continued to sing, to prepare for some exhibition. between the two events carvin johnson ran into david carter, told him the story, and david shrugged. more exciting things happen here, but some-days are pathetically eventless.

we have a very special gym

LEVITATION? nobody was quite sure, but that's the way it looked in the gym with roger rasmussen. what's the story, everyone was asking. spies were spotted at the early basketball games, and melinda brown looked suspicious; ralph conner was admittedly puzzled. a doubtor, curt nylander tried to work out his theories mathematically but ended up writing a theme, with all the words spelled correctly, naturally. janice vetter told brian bassett and word was spread to tom steller, joel kyne, laurette stewart, lorin kiefer and mike mountjoy. ignoring the entire question, ed derosa took his hamburger and left, and so did stan spicer. as usual at m.h.s., music became involved. composing a unique ROGER RASMUSSEN RHAPSODY were rick miller, sharon trevor, denise harvey, cheryl morago, and randy butler. karvin johnson proposed an anti-levitation league and stroked his fur collar. I, a fearful junior, went running to the house of representatives and asked tom johnson for some help. he presented the situation to his second period class; they recommended tearing down the gym and building something a bit less spooked.

tragedy (almost) hit the mhs campus early one thursday morning of my junior year when it was learned that five runners, from clear across country, were in hot pursuit of E-FLAG COMMISSIONER jerry spencer. (apparently e-flag was not flying.) jerry, absolutely spooked, shinnied up the flag pole in desperation.

the press (WILDCAT STAFF) and photographers were immediately called in via thelma thompson to cover the affair. I heard later, as tempers cooled, that jerry, amidst a smattering of spirited applause, descended that evening unscathed. praise frita.

everybody wanted to get in the act . . . a little publicity here and there, some temporary notoriety on campus. SPANISH CLUB was no different. pat ryan, like cheryl aery, wasn't in favor of needless notoriety. he had learned somewhere, probably from tony, that it was now or never. ginny sterba didn't have to learn it though . . . she always made her move on time . . . it came natural.

all quiet

for those who failed to get jazzed by the feats of the varsity and jayvee basketball teams, which definitely excluded terry maxwell and james armstrong, there were always replacements . . . a little lower in the sophistication department than their junior and senior counterparts maybe, but still replacements . . . the BEES and CEES.

but basketball wasn't the only thing that held interest at mhs, believe me. among other things, some were into government; they were called HOUSE REPRESENTATIVES.

hushabye, baby,

unprecedented things were always happening at mhs during my senior year . . . like the MHS MARCHING BAND traveling to national city seeking fame and fortune. notoriety never appealed to roberta harrod though, she even had the gall to leave mhs for arcadia, bless her SOUL. the thought of leaving for rick bruwelheide, cindy thompson or even mrs. marianne campbell was completely out of the question. they knew their place, each one of them, especially mrs. campbell. they say she's in her prime, you know.

You've always brightened me up with your concern and your happy face. Think of me now & then and I'll drop me a line please. I'll probably always remember you (well at least as long as the belt & keychain are there to remind me of the little guy with the happy face who made them for me.)

three stars on my helmet, yes sir my three-starred helmet indicated elevation to SENIOR standing, a facing of closet and shadow monsters. I'm shooting baskets with pat ryan and letting my hair grow like gary gustafson. it is necessary now to get my trash in the barrel and show my stuff on the field and in the pool. I can look back and find myself amusing. robert graves and doug hawthorne know the elevation I feel. just place me in the line with FORENSICS members, dappled and sure, I'll bring in trophies too. at the end of the school year they, the powers, should send me off to clifton so I could give those youngsters the lowdown on how things happen here, how we grow.

t. s. eliot can be wrong

april is the cruelest month, said t. s. eliot. but it didn't matter, for then spring arrived. and with it came the unwinding of academic rigors. my friend helena lisle put on gloves and dug into paul weaver's shoulders; paul dug helena's digging. however, gilbert edmonds wouldn't buy any of that, but lora mills said she would (lora is very pro relaxation). greg holman just looked sort of embarrassed, while off in the shadows, robyn blankenship swore off books and pouted. she looked good that way. "so," said jeff bishop as he walked away, "so I'll have none of this either!" he just walked away. out in the gym a girl shot for the basket and gave the two points to paul, who wasn't impressed (paul is very sophisticated about some things). the merry month of may, okay, so the drama people gussied themselves up and dreamed of maypoles and elizabethan antics; that crowd knows how to celebrate. wearing his suede jacket and striped orange shirt, carl ettensperger said "aw, shucks," and told everyone that they could have may; he would wait for june. paul tried to comprehend all this chatter and reaction, but he ended up not caring. his shoulders felt good no matter what, and feeling good in the spring was an important matter.

sports were big towards the end of the year, especially the biggies: A and B GIRLS BASKETBALL and VARSITY TENNIS. though their popularity was definitely increasing (it was rumored that one time dr. rudoff, himself, attended a tennis match), tod hooks couldn't have cared less about them . . . his thoughts were back on the football field with visions of bands and pep cats, the colonel bogie and national city.

but, like most schools, mhs had its cultural side too, perhaps best exemplified (a senior word) by hele-na lisle. gary duer, also, had that cultured, well-groomed look. but he always seemed to me rather pale, somewhat flushed.

seniors don't need lollipops hobby horses don't scare big seniors like me and bill fisette, for the time to graduate was just around the corner and we had to set an example for juniors like steve carnine, who still depended on a lollipop now and then, all in all, things were shaping up and as in the case of marty leadmen and eric bowers, way up! sue bassi interrupted and said the tennis teams (both jayvee and frosh-soph) were also shaping up. charlene haley agreed, and paul graham would have if he could have found his key. while larry monroe was shooting a basket for the ever-lovin' stillsonmen, george bato said goodbye to debbie ertel as she took the plunge into the french room.

everybody should keep his mojo working frank jansson kept his mojo working, and everybody knew that he was a bad dude. mary hagen agreed and insisted on calling him "mr. man." all of us sen-agreed that larry monroe also deserved a title, but he was too busy shooting baskets to accept one. the FUTURE NURSES were very excited about larry and hadn't been that way since FRESHMEN FOOTBALL posed for a picture, neat in orderly rows. ralph conner didn't want to be left out so he came through with a smashing serve, yes, sir.

ivy day in the committee room have you ever noticed how, on a misty morning, or in a silent sunset, people are more friendly? satisfied just to talk, quietly? let's not force anything, just swing a GOLF club or a BASEBALL bat, or a LOLLIPOP, and you'll be liked, you'll be content.

PEOPLE, that's what's important, and HARMONY. afs works for that, and sometimes GERMAN CLUB too.

the ELECTION COMMITTEE has summarized my feelings in their motto for the year: KEEP ON TRUCKING. no more nightmares for me; they're just beginning.

ELECTION COMMITTEE: cheryl morago, john ferris, barbi gholar, barbi crist, donald anderson, ginny sterba, nina bruhns.

sophistication plus

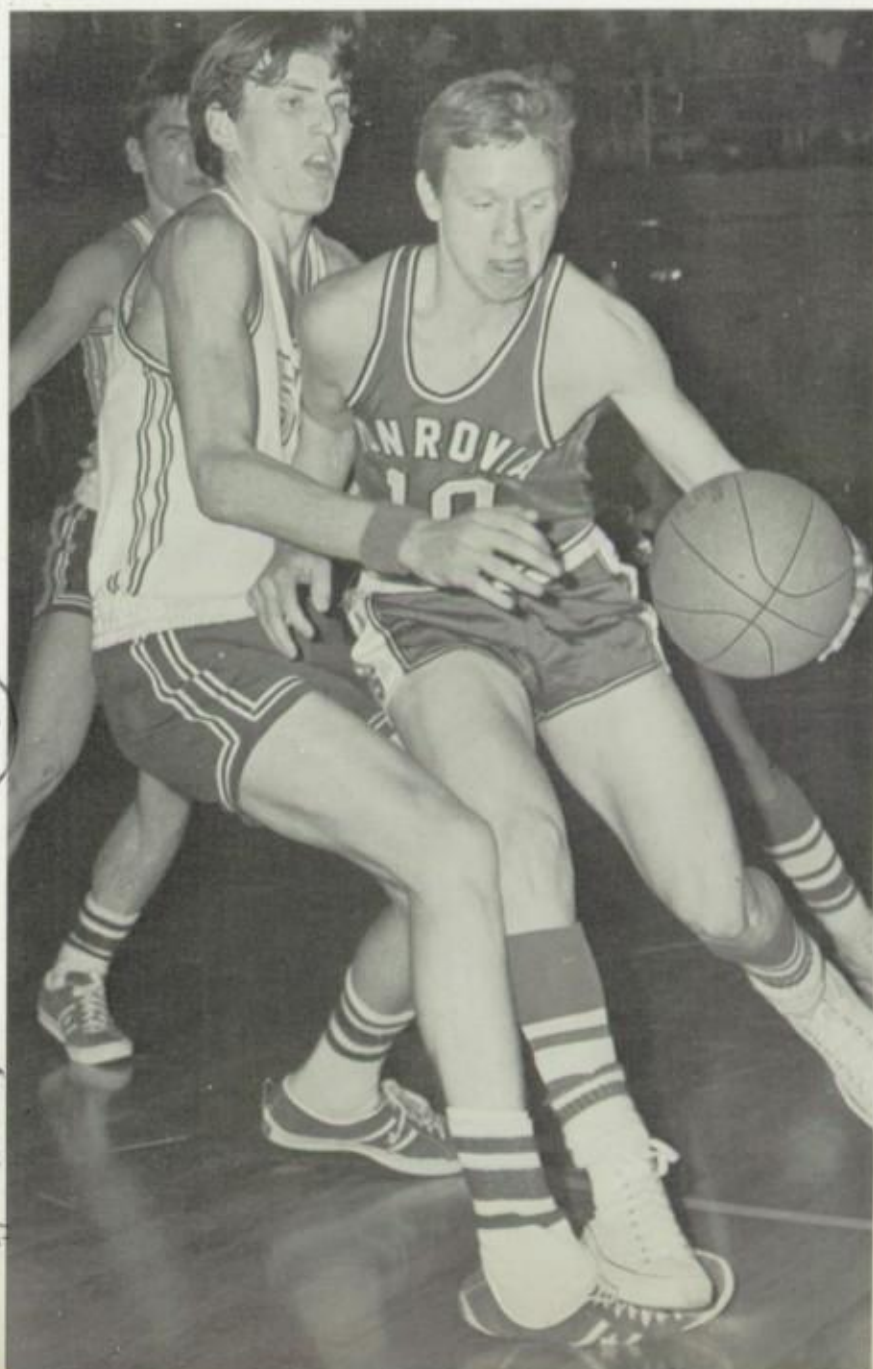

now a senior nearing graduation, I began to feel a certain admiration toward my senior counterparts . . . a sort of pride you can sense perhaps only if you've reached that plateau of SENIOR SUCCESS, only if you've experienced and tasted that crust of bread, that taste of schnapps.

take chip johnson, for example; can't that guy dribble a basketball like nobody you've ever seen? and check out the CONCERT CHOIR, GIRL'S VARSITY TRACK and VARSITY BASEBALL . . . such senior sophistication even evades frita.

kevin's poem

he doesn't exist.
 when you turn around, he's not there.
 awakening in the morning,
 you won't find him sharing your room.
 he's not around the corner hiding, waiting to surprise you with a knife or a gun.
 his weapon is that of uncertainty.
 he doesn't harm purposely;
 he can't,
 but he sometimes causes you to harm yourself.
 don't let him.
 don't look for his shadow in the closet or listen for his footstep on the roof.
 he's not there.

the staff (us)

the combination of experiences, rememberings and philosophies rampant on this year's staff was instrumental in producing this book as it comes to you. an outlet for all things inside wanting out, wanting to be said, so maybe we could be a little help to those who are still unsure of whether their own nightmares are real or imagined.

we are all in essence the kid, and all have nightmares of one sort or another, beasts who haunt our happiness. we all tried to enlighten a few of our own through our work on the STAFF (US).

WE: denise mackessy, sheila lebrecht, nina bruhns, gordon kruckeberg, dennis borders, barbi crist, paul weaver, robin buckholtz, tom silcott, frank jansson, kris leonard, bob aldrich, cindy thompson, david warner, julie peet, jeff grace.

dianna, roger, great-looking seniors dianna curtis and roger rasmussen stand out in a crowd. obviously this year's senior class agrees because dianna and roger are 72's best in looks.

dianna leads a hectic life, reigning as homecoming queen in november, as senior class secretary. always dianna is active, not extrovertedly so. she maintains her interests and her poise. quiet, not shy, dianna has a face to remember.

roger, tall, tan, and blond is a page out of summer. but like all good things summer must end. when winter arrives roger turns from beaches to basketballs, from surfboards to stillson, a switch he makes adeptly.

kathy, terry, super-spirited seniors the spirituous souls of mhs for 1972 are green, not char-treuse, not drab, but brightly green. kathy allen and terry maxwell have led the faithful through a year of blithe cheer.

kathy was born to be a cheerleader. her first experience along this line came when she successfully led her kindergarten class through a marathon of standing on their heads. kathy is petite in size, yet endowed with the power to sway the masses behind a single cause.

surprisingly unassuming for a spirit person, terry has a special talent for rallying people together, quietly maybe, but effectively anyway. in sometimes shaky times, he is a pillar of spirit and involvement.

bonnie, bill, sparkling personalities their smiles are the key to success of this year's most personable, bonnie witt and bill boocock. they have other attributes going for them too.

bonnie, whether headsongleading or just singing radiates friendliness and warmth. bonnie is outgoing. bonnie likes people and she allows it to show. people like bonnie.

bill is the boy next door, grown up. his sense of humor is infectious and one enjoys spending time with bill. from playing tackle football with the girls at bradoaks, he has progressed to the varsity boys at monrovia. but, a singing tackle?

robin, ron, brains of the class

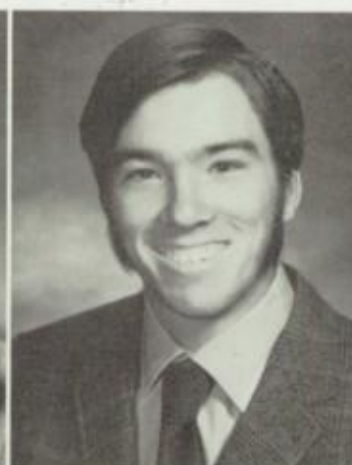

one, two . . . thrown together throughout lives of blue and green. an accident? those of the intelligensia may not stick together knowingly, but to mhs they, together, ARE the intelligensia, they; robin buckholtz and ron dobes.

the lady in green is involved in much more than academia. people, emotion, smiling, she knows them all. she triumphs in her greenness, her nonpho-niness.

ron saunters about in a haze of blue-green, a pleasant mixture of sincerity, involvement, and aloofness. admired, envied, liked by mhs, ron wears his intelligence as softly as a wool hat.

nancy, greg, stand-outs for '72 smoothness, charm, a glow of eagerness and caring . . . these are traits shared by mhs' outstanding people, nancy olson and greg allbee.

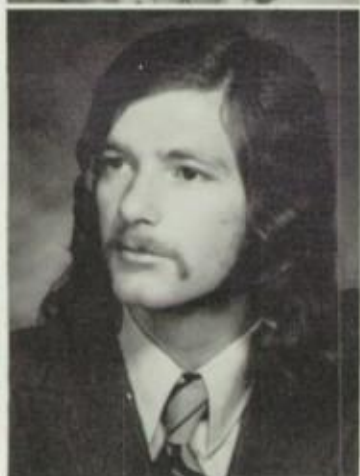

nancy may be seen bouncing down the hall, hair acurl, alternately burgundy and blue. of exquisite taste, she is concerned with people. people are concerned with her.

having established an air of success, greg is always ready to lend a hand, helping out in financial areas and dramatic. being careful to separate the blue from the green, he achieves a pleasant blend of the two.

call me what instrument you will, though you can fret me, you cannot play upon me when I became a senior they told me about gold seal graduates. they were not to be feared so I refused to be intimidated by their celestial intelligence. after all, they were merely people who used their wits and wiles to get those a's.

for some it meant sleepless nights while others seemed just lucky. this year's academic aristocracy includes larry kuro-miya, penny phillips, paul weaver, carol slovak, barbi crist, pete daugherty, cheryl morago, cisco lobaco, paula leis, cindy thompson, david warner, robin buckholtz, bob aldrich, debbie taylor, ron dobes and steve newkirk.

stefanie saccoman, penny phillips, greg allbee, vivian duran, john sheasby, shirley tennant, randy musselman, cheryl morago, larry kuromiya, denise mac-kessy, shoukouh amin javaheri, ron dobes, jeff benson, nina bruhns, gilles bonnet, debbie taylor head-on collisions can be fun

"there are forty-three of them. they wear blue, mostly on thursdays. they smile. they're wonderful people. armed with not one, but two new gavels, madquins' illustrious president stefanie ann saccoman supervises bake sales, program sales, goal post wrapping and a lot of other good things.

the monarcs, in an attempt at notoriety, charge to the call of can drives and lush and green parties led by their fearless president, max glassbrook.

flag raising and assemblies are times that the blue forces form a united front. but, in truth — they're all bozos on that bus!" she said sparingly.

I sit here . . . and I can think of all those things past remembrances of times gone by.
 of autumn leaves and the time I sat on a freshly painted fence, in my new pants.
 my mom about had a fit.
 I can remember saying
 I love you . . .
 and the time you sprayed shaving cream
 all over me
 when I insisted on watching you that morning.
 And realizing that
 this is it.
 you've got to make it last.
 you've grown up.
 it really matters (everything).
 I can still feel the hot tears of the day I finally understood time,
 and of the moment I thought
 you were gone.
 I recall people and their lessons to me, cards, and writing in fits of sleeplessness and wind, and songs and sunsets.
 this is the end of something,
 something good,
 something I've liked,
 but still, just the first musky (like when it starts raining) breath of great times to come
 not just this next year, but this time it's forever.
 I don't look too far forward,
 ahead, that's too fast, but someday I'll look back and write about it in fits of sleeplessness and wind and thoughts of you.

Ted,
 Its sure a bummer
 in Spanish you know
 so this summer we need to have a lot of parties with the madguins + Monarchs
 so we can recuperate
 see you this summer at those parties

now that I have reached that highest plateau of secondary learning, I feel I am capable of going out into the world, breaking the delicate ties I've so long pampered and treasured. but I also find I'm not the all-knowing, never-wrong kid I used to be, and others can sometimes express what I feel better than I can. TEACHERS were important, are important, to me. sometimes they said some pretty relevant things. I ADMIRE teachers now, where I used to think they were the dumbest thing about school. we had some trying times, teachers and I but I suppose it all came out for the best.

I find I'm not the four-star general I thought I was; I am really just a scared little kid with a wild imagination, about to leave the solid security of my walnut four-poster, about to discover the real nightmares, the kind that don't hide in your closet.

Jeddy,
I'm signing
this next to my picture.
Do you like it? Anyway, It's been a fun speech class and you a funny guy. Transitional? means "we're trying together." You remember that! I hope I can see you alot next, but until then.....

Love
Jeddy

Jeddy, a great you're! I'm glad I got manager!
to see more of you this year.
maybe next year will have at least some classes together. I hope our relationship continues. Good luck in the years to come. See you this summer (I hope).

Love,
Nancy

Teddy!
your small with your J's are all full

Daddy.
Hill we're finally the big seniors. I thought we would never make it! Be good & have a nice
summer! Love
